

Student Accessibility Services

College of Alameda

(formerly Programs & Services for Students with Disabilities - DSPS)

STUDENT RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

As a student with a disability, you have the right to:

- Participate voluntarily in SAS;
- Participate in other courses, programs, or activities offered by the college;
- Protection of disclosure of records maintained by SAS;
- All other rights afforded by the Americans with Disabilities Act and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, including equal access and academic accommodation;
- Appeal a decision regarding accommodations through the student grievance process as described in the College Catalog.

As a student with a disability, you have the responsibility to:

- Comply with the Student Rules of Conduct as adopted by the college and written in the college catalog and all other applicable statutes and regulations related to student conduct;
 - Provide professional documentation of disability to the college;
 - Request accommodations in a timely way;
 - Be responsible in the use of SAS services and adhere to written service provision policies adopted by SAS;
 - Maintain the academic standards of the college and make progress toward the goals established in your Academic Accommodation Plan.
-
-